Seymour Arizona, located on the East bank of the Hassayampa River 10 miles south of Wickenburg, was a short-lived mill town for Vulture Mine ores.

Letter [enclosed] was written by a member of the post road construction crew working near Peeples Valley 45 miles north of Seymour. This new post road bypassed Date Creek and shortened the Prescott to Wickenburg postal route.

California mails from Seymour were routed south through Phoenix to the new town of Maricopa along the Southern Pacific Railroad. Westbound train for Los Angeles departed Maricopa daily at 7:00AM.
